

How to Run the UAT (Tester Guide)

This guide explains how the chamber's own staff run the acceptance tests on the trial system and sign them off before go-live.

UAT (User Acceptance Testing) is the final check before the system goes live: the chamber's own staff confirm, with their own eyes, that everything works the way it should. You do this by clicking through the system yourself, step by step, and signing off when each part passes.

You do not need any technical skills. Your system administrator prepares a test version of the system for you and gives you a link plus a few test accounts to sign in with. Your job is simply to follow the steps and confirm the results.

What you'll receive

Before you start, your administrator will give you:

A link (web address) to the test system. Open it in your web browser.

Test accounts to sign in with — usually three kinds: an admin account, a manager account, and a member account.

This is a trial system filled with made-up test data, not the real one. Nothing you do here affects real members or real records, so feel free to click around and test thoroughly.

How to run each test

1. Open the link your administrator gave you in your web browser, then sign in.
 - For staff accounts (admin, manager), use the staff sign-in page.
 - For the member account, use the member sign-in page.
 - Your administrator will tell you which web address to use for each.
2. Open the test document sets one at a time, in order. Start from the contents list and pick the first set (for example, the sign-in test set, then the membership set, and so on).
3. For each test case in a set:
 - Follow the instructions in the Steps column, doing exactly that on the live screen.
 - Compare what you see with the Expected result column.
 - Mark Pass or Fail, and add evidence in the notes — for example, the document number the system gave you, or a screenshot.
4. If something does not match the expected result, mark it Fail, write down the test-case number and what went wrong, and tell your administrator. Do not sign off that set until the problem is fixed.
5. When you have finished every test case in a set, fill in the summary and sign your name at the bottom of that set. Then move on to the next set, until all sets are done.

Tip: work through one set at a time — one feature per sitting. You don't have to do everything in one go. Sign off each set as you complete it; if one set has a problem, you can focus on just that part.

When is it a PASS (Go)?

It is a Pass (Go) when every set has passed and been signed, including the overall sign-off at the end. Once that is complete, your administrator switches the system from the test version to the real, live version (go-live).

Who does what

Role	What they do
Administrator	Prepares the test system and the test accounts, and switches the system to live at the end

Role	What they do
Office / Membership Manager	Runs the test steps, hands-on, for each set
Accountant / Bookkeeper	Co-signs the F4 tax-invoice set (tax invoices, VAT, receipts)
General Manager / Executive Director	Gives the final go / no-go sign-off on behalf of the chamber

If something doesn't work

If you run into any of these, you don't need to fix it yourself — just note the test-case number and pass it on.

- A page won't open, or shows an error message.
- Note the test-case number and tell your administrator.
- The credit-card payment form doesn't appear.
- Note the test-case number and tell your administrator.
- You paid, but the invoice didn't change to "Paid".
- Note the test-case number and tell your administrator.
- A feature says it's "not enabled" or shows a "page not found" message.
- Note the test-case number and tell your administrator.

Saving your evidence

For every test case, keep proof: the document number you received (for example INV-2026-000123) and/or a screenshot of the screen.

Save screenshots in one folder per set, named like F4-TC-INV-01.png (set – test-case – short note) so anyone can find them later.

Write the same document number in the Notes field of the test case.

Keep all evidence until the final Go/No-Go sign-off is complete.
